

CommerceStyle Under Construction

Hello everyone! Well as you've probably noticed from the freshly installed CMS, CommerceStyle is now under construction.

What does this mean? Well for starters, it means that the site will actually be back online and live before you know it.

For everyone who didn't get a chance to experience CommerceStyle (hereinafter known as CS) when it was previously live I'll explain a bit about what it was and now what its going to become.

CS started live as a website dedicated to creating articles and content that would empower the e-commerce professionals. Topics ranging from Google search engine rankings to Pay Pal, CSS design and more. The site grew, and eventually became too large to manage. We closed the doors, restructured the team, and have now returned and are building a brand new CS that will deliver every single place the old CS did plus 10 times more.

We've got a few projects in the works that will flat out make life much easier for e-commerce developers, managers and directors, and we're working on lots of free goodies to assist the designers out there. While we can't go into a lot of detail just yet, I can promise that we'll keep you updated via the blogs, and if you can just pay no attention to the mess around here for just a while longer longer we'll make it worth the wait.

thanks
